

Bradley S. Bloom, M.D. is a board-certified dermatologist and fellowship trained Mohs micrographic surgeon. He is currently on faculty at Skin Laser & Surgery Specialists of NY & NJ.

Dr. Bloom completed his Procedural Dermatology fellowship in New York City. He received his medical degree and completed his residency training at NYU School of Medicine where he was elected to the national honors society, Alpha Omega Alpha, and served as chief resident.

Dr. Bloom's clinical and research interests include biomedical applications of lasers and energy devices, skin barrier function, topical drug delivery, and Mohs micrographic surgery. He has published in numerous peer-reviewed journals and lectures both nationally and internationally. Dr. Bloom has served on the board of directors for the ASLMS, work groups for the ASDS and ASLMS, and on the editorial board of the Journal of Cosmetic Dermatology and the Journal of Cosmetic and Laser Therapy.