
Dr. Francisco Martínez Pérez is a clinical neurophysiologist in Madrid, Spain. Bachelor of Medicine and Surgery at the Complutense University. After completing his medical residency in 2004 at University Hospital Puerta de Hierro, he has been serving there as a faculty and coordinator in Clinical Neurophysiology Department. Master degree in Neurological Electrodiagnosis of the University of Barcelona. Master degree in Sleep: Physiology and Pathology of the Pablo de Olavide University.

He has been awarded the National Prize for Medicine s. XXI of the year 2019.

Dr. Martínez has conducted and participated in 15 clinical trials and has over 100 lectures, scientific publications and chapters in books, including several consensus and guidelines for scientific societies (SENFC, SES) and the National Medical Speciality Commission.

He currently works mainly in the private sphere, in Advanced Pain Management Center (La Milagrosa Hospital), Ruber Hospital, and MIP Salud Clinical Center, with special dedication on neurophysiological evaluation of painful and neuromuscular disorders, and as a researcher.
