

Hugues Cartier is a dermatologist in a medical centre in the Hauts de France composed of four other dermatologists and an endocrinologist.

Its activity is divided between this private centre with a predominant instrumental activity (surgical dermatology, skin cancer, aesthetic and laser) and the Arras hospital as head of the wounds and healing department. The centre he heads is also mandated for expertise and clinical studies for dressings, fillers and toxins in phases II to III.

Dr. Cartier is the global scientific coordinator of the IMCAS congresses of the French and Belgian Society of Aesthetic Medicine. He is also the past-president of the laser group of the French Society of Dermatology.