

Bradley S. Bloom, M.D. is a board-certified dermatologist specializing in cosmetic dermatology and laser skin surgery. He is also a clinical assistant professor of dermatology at the New York University School of Medicine.

Dr. Bloom graduated from NYU School of Medicine, earning his medical degree and induction into the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society. He completed his dermatology residency training and served as chief resident at the NYU School of Medicine. Dr. Bloom then completed a cosmetic, laser, and Mohs micrographic fellowship at the Laser & Skin Surgery Center of New York.

Dr. Bloom has published articles in numerous peer-reviewed journals. He has also lectured nationally and internationally and served on work groups for the American Society for Dermatologic Surgery and the American Society for Lasers in Medicine and Surgery. Dr. Bloom also served as a representative to the Board of Directors of ASLMS.

Dr. Bloom sees patients in New York City in private practice on Manhattan's upper east side.